1. The following are additional observations by CAHELM of Subject of Reference. These initial impressions resulted from a two-day acquaintanceship, during which CAHELM was only twice able to talk to Subject alone, each time for about twenty minutes and each time at Subject's initiative. We are also forwarding u/s/c a photograph of Subject taken during her visit by CAHELM and her calling card. 2. According to CAHELM, Subject, who possesses a doctorate in Ethnography and is unmarried, in no way gave the impression of being a political functionary. She hardly ever took the initiative in broaching purely political topics. Instead, her main interests appeared to be similar to those of any Western woman: fashions, living standards, leisure time, youth and school problems, prices. When political matters were being discussed, Subject did not spew forth the standard party-line reply but rather attempted to provide an honest answer. However, when the questions were too difficult or too embarrassing, silence and a smile were her answer. 3. In addition to a little English, Subject speaks almost fluent-free German, which she claimed to have learned from her aunt as a child. CAHELM described her personality as modest, direct, and sensitive, not unlike that of a Western European woman. Of above average intelligence, Subject showed herself to be "warm and natural in the right circumstances", responding promptly to those who exhibited the same openness and honesty.

4. CAHEM has since written a cordial letter to Subject, thanking her for the short visit, enclosing a few photos taken at the time, and expressing the hope that they would see each other some time again. Although he has as yet received no reply to this letter, we are optimistic that one will be forthcoming.
